John (et al) -

With as many switch problems being experienced at the same time I would find it difficult to believe that the switch problems are mechanical (track side not signal side) and not signal related, but that is a comment made by someone hundreds of miles away.

What seems like an "all of a sudden" occurrence you seem to be experiencing a fairly large increase in failures on the Thames side of things. That many failures at one time is NOT coincidental. If the repair or "cure" is changing out of cards be very wary.

In any case, as John says jump on it.

Lots of switch issues today again. I spoke to Peter last night about it and just now. He's got Bruce Howie on it. Told him we need a full court press on switches again as it's crept back up. My bet - either Claude is not doing maintenance again or weather. Please jump all over this - Michael include it in your workshop this week. Get Outlook for iOS

Please be advised, switch 328 has gone disturbed.

It has been reported to helpdesk.

Mainline is currently short turning trains at STL until the switch has been cleared.

Updates to follow.
